

"It's one of the most endearing animals I have ever met. Huge numbers of them are illegally exported, mainly to China."
- David Attenborough

NOVEMBER - 2019

Did you know?

- Pangolins are insect-eating mammals covered in tough, overlapping scales which are made of keratin—just like our hair and finger nails.
- They can quickly roll themselves up into a tight ball when they feel threatened.
- Illegal wildlife trade and habitat loss have made these incredible creatures one of the most threatened groups of mammals in the world.
- The most trafficked mammals in the world, they are coveted for their scales and meat.

MONDAY	TUESDAY	WEDNESDAY	THURSDAY	FRIDAY	SATURDAY	SUNDAY
				01	02	03
04	05	06	07	08	09	10
11	12	13	14	15	16	17
18	19	20	21	22	23	24
25	26	27	28	29	30

