ORANGE YOU GLAD?

Halloween pumpkins give you a fright

Nemo and Garfield are quite the delight

Leaves turn orange in autumn's warm glow

And stunning sunsets put on a dazzling show

DID YOU KNOW?

- The colour orange was used by ancient civilisations in Egypt, China and India.
- The colour was derived from minerals like realgar and orpiment, and stones like carnelian.
- Alchemists in the West and in China used orpiment in their experiments to create gold because of its yellow-orange colour.
- The Golden Gate Bridge, in San Francisco, was painted orange to make it more visible in fog.
- The orange colour in fruits and vegetables comes from carotene.
- Orange is the national colour of The Netherlands since the royal family held the principality of Orange as the House of Orange-Nassau.
